JUDAH TRIBE ANNOUNCES GLOBAL RELEASE OF NEW SEAN BELL TRIBUTE SINGLE "JUDGMENT"

Judah Tribe reggae band today announced the global release of the controversial single Judgment. The song which is garnering international attention is now available from online retailers including iTunes, Rhapsody, Amazon, Napster, and Zune. In addition to the Jamaica, the single is now available in the United States, Canada, Japan, Germany, Australia, France, Norway, Chile, Spain and countries around the world. Fans can now search for purchasing information for their respective country at www.JudahTribe.com/shop.htm.

The release follows the performance of Judah Tribe at the Brooklyn Academy of Music (BAM). The concert attracted a capacity crowd and left hundreds outside in the cold, according to sources. The audience treated to a special night by lead singer Josh David. Les Paultre, lead guitarist of Judah Tribe, father-in-law of Sean Bell, wowed the crowd with his high energy guitar solos.

Also on hand for the performance was Nicole Paultre Bell, wife-to-be of Sean Bell, who introduced the song Judgment to the audience. The highly anticipated song was written as a tribute to Sean Bell, killed by NYPD officers on his wedding day. The release of the single coincides with the 2nd anniversary of the incident.

*"Just too easy, to pull the trigger,
Just too easy, to gun down another brother or sister,
Just too easy, to pull the trigger,
Just too easy, to gun down another nigger."*

About Judah Tribe

With a style reminiscent of the golden era of reggae music, Judah Tribe has honed its unique blend of soul reggae. Judah Tribe has captured the imagination of fans; comparisons to legends such as Bob Marley & The Wailers and Steel Pulse are not uncommon.

The music of Judah Tribe has been heard inside the walls of the United Nations as well as at many prestigious events including; CMJ Music Marathon, BAMcafe Live at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, Chase Sounds of The City at the New Jersey Performing Arts Center and Target 1st Saturdays at the Brooklyn Museum in New York City. Judah Tribe has also been featured at the Danny Simmon's Corridor Gallery, S.O.Bs and Galapagos in New York City.

Judah Tribe is led by singer/guitarist Josh David. Josh David has toured extensively with Little Jackie, Q-Tip of A Tribe Called Quest and has played with internationally renown artist Prince, Stevie Wonder, Common, Rene Neufville and Joy Denalane.

Together with music director & keyboardist Eric Toussaint, aka The General, Josh David has crafted a unique sound that is stirring lots of conversation. With members stemming from Cameron, Jamaica, France, Haiti and the United States, Judah Tribe is developing a truly international following. For more information visit www.JudahTribe.com.

"Their music takes me back to the days of The Wailers, Jacob Miller and the real reggae giants."
Renowned reggae artist Ed Robinson.
